Parking Meters Will Produce Turnover; Bar All-Day Parking

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Free parking and all-day parking in Andover's public lots are on their way out, the town manager said this week, because new parking meters are on their way in.

Parking meters will be installed before long in town lots behind old Town Hall and at the former Heartland site, on Main Street next to Old Andover Village and, eventually, behind the soon-to-be-renovated Memorial Hall Library.

With the new meters will come a full-time traffic supervisor (known in some parts as a meter maid) to patrol the meters and ticket parking violators.

The move toward more meters is not intended to generate revenue for the town, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said Monday (as in downtown Boston, for instance, where some frustrated parkers have alleged that that city's strict meter enforcement is purely a money-making proposition).

"The purpose is to enforce turnover," the manager emphasized, "and to keep all-day parking out." Town officials want to see parking spaces left free for shoppers and library patrons.

Today the only parking meters in Andover are five-cent, one-hour meters in the Main Street lot. Much of that lot is unmetered, however, and Police Department surveys have shown that Boston-bound bus commuters and downtown employees use many of those spaces all day.

The plan is to add new meters to "a good portion" of the Main Street lot, Mahony said, combining two-hour meters with some four-hour meters.

The meters will most likely cost parkers 10 cents for one hour, 25 cents for two hours, and 50 cents for four hours. The existing meters will be increased from five to ten cents, the manager said.

At the old Town Hall/Heartland site, where a new town lot will be constructed this year, most of the meters will be for two hours, although some four-hour meters will be added near the back of the lot.

Town officials had hoped to see the new meters installed this summer. But the manager plans to put the old Town Hall and Main Street lots out to bid as one package, and a "utility problem" encountered behind Town Hall has delayed work at that site. Because of that delay, it is currently impossible to say when the meters will appear, Mahony said.

The manager said he wants to bid all the meters together so their parts will be interchangeable, at least as much as possible, to make repairs easier and faster.

(Public Works Director Robert McQuade

explained Tuesday that the delay behind old Town Hall is not due to problems with the utilities precisely, but to the fact that Park, Barnard and Bartlett streets are scheduled for extensive reconstruction as part of the parking lot project.

(As long as the roads are to be excavated, the DPW director said, it might make sense to replace all utilities in the roads at the same time. He noted that the utilities in the three roadways are old and could need emergency replacement at any time.

(The parking lot project has therefore been put "on hold" until Public Works reviews possible plans for replacing the utili-

Peter Pan To Be Shown Monday

The Department of Community Services' second summer movie will be Walt Disney's Peter Pan on Monday, July 9. The movie will be shown behind Doherty Junior High School and will run for approximately 80 minutes. "When There's a Smile in Your Heart, There's no Better Time to Start" than with this 1950 animated classic. A wish, a pinch of pixie dust, and you're whisked away to the second star on the right and Never Never Land to relive the magical adventures of Peter, Wendy, The Island of Lost Boys, the villainous Captain Hook and the deadly "ticking" crocodile.

During the long preparation and three years of active production, Disney used every one of his top animators, background painters and character delineators to create more than a half million separate drawings and sketches as well as 900 painted background to bring the Sir James M. Barrie play to life.

Admission is free. The film will begin at dusk. This program has been funded in part by Backstreet, Barcelos, Kenneth P. Thompson Co. and New England Stores.

In the event of rain, scheduled movies will be shown on Tuesdays.

Town House Topics

School Board In Session Tuesday

School Committee members have scheduled their next meeting for Tuesday, July 10, at 8 p.m., in the committee meeting room, upstairs in the School Office Building, Whittier St. The meeting will begin one half hour later than the usual time, at 8 p.m.

That afternoon, the committee members will begin interviews for assistant superintendents. Progress to fill the two newly created permanent assistant superintendent posts is expected to be discussed at the meeting.

Regulations Revision On Agenda

Revising their own subdivision rules and regulations will be among the topics on the Planning Board's agenda when they meet at 7:30 Tuesday night at town offices on Bartlet Street (second floor).

The planners are expected to continue their discussion, begun last month, of possible revisions to their rules and regulations. The board hopes to tighten up their guidelines for developers, and will work on recommendations outlined by board member Russ Moran.

Also on Tuesday night's agenda: a status report on earth removal and regrading at Andover Country Club Estates' section four, and a public hearing on a special permit for earth regrading at Riverside Park, an industrial development proposed for River Road.

And the planners are scheduled to elect new officers during next week's meeting as well.

Selectmen Will Meet On July 16

The Board of Selectmen have scheduled one meeting for this month, and the town manager predicts that it may be a busy one. The board plans to meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 16.

Chief topic on the agenda: setting goals and objectives for the new fiscal year. The board agrees each year on a list of top priorities for themselves and the manager.

Earlier in the evening, at 7, the selectmen will meet jointly with the Andover Housing Authority to interview candidates for a vacancy on the AHA. (Interested candidates should forward their applications to the town manager's office before July 16.)

Beyond that the agenda remains open at this point, but Town Manager Kenneth Mahony notes that because the board will meet only once this month, any number of topics may come up for discussion during that meeting.

Rep. Tucker At Library Tuesday

State Representative Sue Tucker of Andover will be available to meet with citizens this Tuesday, July 10, at Andover's Memorial Hall Library.

The session, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., will give citizens the opportunity to meet with Tucker on an individual, in-person basis to discuss problems, seek advice or offer opinions on current issues. No appointment is necessary.

Persons unable to attend can contact Tucker's office at any time: State Representative Sue Tucker, State House, Room 167, Boston, MA 02133. Telephone number is 722-2692.

Andover Doctor To Develop Device

An Andover man will help develop a tool to fight gum disease thanks to a grant from the National Institute of Dental Research.

Dr. Robert T. V. Kung, of Andover, is the chief scientist at ABIOMED, a medical and dental instruments company in Danvers. ABIOMED will try to develop a periodontal disease diagnostic probe with the national grant.

Initial tests of the tool will be conducted at the Forsyth Dental Center, in Boston, said Kung.

Parish Planning Tour

St. Augustine's Parish Community, 43 Essex St., has planned its first tour to Hawaii October 17-31, escorted by Rev. Richard T. O'Leary, O.S.A., St. Augustine's pastor.

The tour will begin with motorcoach transportation directly from Andover to Logan International Airport where participants will board an American Airlines jumbo jet with direct service to Honolulu where accommodations have been arranged for five nights. Then, utilizing Aloha Airlines for inter-island flights, stops will be made in Kauai for two nights; Maui for four nights and Kona, on the Big Island of Hawaii, for two nights.

At a recent Aloha Travel Night held at the church, Susan Schumacher, a professional travel agent responsible for planning the tour and a member of the parish, explained that the tour included a great deal such as 13 nights superior class hotel accommodations, all transportation, six dinners and one luncheon, extensive sightseeing, a luau, all taxes and gratuities and much more. She stated that "Hawaii is enjoying a fantastic tourist season and the St. Augustine's tour reflects a good price for those interested in joining."

Fr. O'Leary will celebrate Mass daily at St. Augustine's Church on Kalakaua Avenue in downtown Honolulu.

Brochures describing all features of the tour are available at the rectory.

Receives Eagle Award

Nicolas K. Bates received the Boys Scouts of America highest rank of Eagle at a Court of Honor on Wednesday, June 20, by Troop 77 at West Parish Church of Andover.

Bates has been a member of Troop 77 for five years and has held leadership positions of assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, quartermaster and assistant senior patrol leaders. For his Eagle project he led the scouts of Troop 77 in transplanting several sugar maple trees to the courtyard in front of the church. Bates is an avid soccer player and has been on the high school varsity team for the past two years. This past year he was vice president of the West Parish Youth Group and has been on the high school honor roll. Bates plans to go the University of New Hampshire and study electrical engineering and computer science.

The Eagle Court of Honor was conducted by Troop 77 Scoutmaster Richard Shupe and Paul Clinton of Andover. Eagle Scouts Peter Larsen and Jeff Shupe served as escorts. Nick's mother pinned on the Eagle badge while his father looked on. More than 100 Troop 77 scouts, parents and families were on hand for a potluck supper and the Court of Honor.

Name Change

Catherine Laboure Junior College in Boston changed its legal name to Catherine Laboure College. The college will continue to use a shortened version of its name, Laboure College, and will continue to offer the associate in science degree in six health care fields.

Laboure had its origins in three separate institutions, the Schools of Nursing at Carney and St. Margaret's Hospitals in Boston and St. John's Hospital in Lowell.

The three schools merged in 1951 to become the Catherine Laboure School of Nursing, an independent diploma school located at the present site adjacent to Carney Hospital.

Responding to increasing demands by the health care community for qualified employees in several health care disciplines, the School of Nursing had its charter amended in 1971.

The charter change established Laboure Junior College, with degree-granting authority in nursing and allied health. The three-year diploma program in nursing was replaced by a two-year associate degree nursing program.

Healthy Back Program At YMCA

The Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. will offer the Y's Way to a Health Back program starting Monday, July 9. The program, designed primarily to relieve back pain, increase flexibility and ease tension, was designed by Dr. Hans Kraus, world-famous back specialist, and approved by the medical advisory committee of the Y.M.C.A. of Greater New York.

The special exercise program, which utilizes the Kraus-Weber test to determine minimal muscular strength and flexibility, is composed of a series of movements that begins with relaxation, then flexibility, mild muscular strengthening and returning to muscle relaxation techniques.

"More than 80 percent of the participants previously enrolled in our program found relief or complete elimination of back pain," according to Heidi Wolfman, certified instructor of the program.

"If you are among the many who complain of back pain and your condition is not caused by organic disease, but by muscles that are weak or tense, or both, then the Y.M.C.A. program may be of significant help to you," stated Wolfman.

The six-week program will be offered Monday and Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Registrations are now being accepted at the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A Fascination With An Artist Leads To Being Published

By Sue Aucella Deacon

An art teacher first pointed Katherine Hoffman — at the time a graduate student and a young painter with an interest in "nature and the environment" — toward the works of Georgia O'Keeffe.

The student didn't see anything of her own work in O'Keeffe's paintings, as her teacher had believed she might. But she "became fascinated" by O'Keeffe, a "grande dame" of modern art who is perhaps best known for her striking, hard-edged paintings of the New Mexico landscape — bones lying in the desert sand, sky, hills, canyons.

Katherine Hoffman is no longer a student, but an associate professor of art history at Bradford College, Bradford, with a Ph.D. from New York University, a painter and photographer, a writer who has published articles on nineteenth-century and contemporary artists. She is also the author of An Enduring Spirit: The Art of Georgia O'Keeffe, published last month by Scarecrow Press, Metuchen, N.J.

The 245-page book, her first, is not a biography of O'Keeffe but rather "a study of the work, the times and the environment in which she lived and first developed, which is important to what she became," the author explains. "It's about the people she knew, the time and the place, and the critical response to her work, which was so extreme in the twenties and thirties."

Dr. Hoffman has just moved to Andover from Bradford, and she's busy settling into a sunny house on Patricia Circle with her husband, writer and Emerson College professor Sean Gresh; and their two children, Kristen, 8, and Geoffrey, 4.

She carries a sizable load at Bradford, teaching four courses each semester on such topics as American art and architecture, European art of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the artist in contemporary society, the business of art.

Her own paintings (now temporarily under wraps in her basement) are "images of the sky and clouds" in pale blues, pinks, white. Her most recent photographs, in color and black-and-white, are of clouds as well.

She is a teacher of art history — one who concentrates chiefly on twentieth-century artists — because "I've always been fascinated by the lives of artists," Katherine says. "I think art has been an important part of our culture and civilization. It's just important for people to know about the kinds of things artists have done to contribute to society and culture."

From the first, she was drawn to the way O'Keeffe "dealt with the world of nature, and began to abstract from it. She created a new kind of world — it was a refreshing, almost unique approach."

And, too, she was impressed by the way the artist has always painted whatever she wanted to paint, despite what was going on in the art world at the time — and her time stretches from the earliest years of this century to the present.

O'Keeffe's "semi-abstract" images of "flowers, bones, objects in the environment, range from realistic to completely abstract," Dr. Hoffman notes. "She has her own kind of way. O'Keeffe does not fit neatly into realism, say, or surrealism: not symbolism or regionalism: "It's very hard to classify her — she tended to kind of do her own things."

Katherine Hoffman pages through illustrations in the book she has just authored, An Enduring Spirit: The Art of Georgia O'Keeffe. A framed example of one of O'Keeffe's flower paintings is in the foreground.

Her book was inspired by, but not based upon, a doctoral dissertation she completed on O'Keeffe. While researching that work, Dr. Hoffman realized that little had been written about the artist. After she finished her dissertation, she began to consider "doing something more substantial — not just an academic work that would collect dust on a library shelf."

In three major sections, An Enduring Spirit deals with "The Milieu" of O'Keeffe's life, "The Critics and Their Backgrounds," and "The Work" — the artist's paintings and sculpture. It also includes an extensive bibliography and 48 black-and-white illustrations of O'Keeffe's oils and watercolors.

To research the book, Dr. Hoffman spent time in places O'Keeffe where has lived — New York City, New Mexico, Texas, South Carolina — to "get a sense of where she had been." She visited museums and archives (the Yale library, Whitney Museum, and Museum of Modern Art in New York were particularly fruitful), and interviewed people who have known O'Keeffe over the years.

She found help in various forms from Lloyd Goodrich, a former director of the Whitney Museum; art critics Herbert Seligmann and Lewis Mumford, who were among O'Keeffe's New York contemporaries; and writer Calvin Tompkins, who profiled O'Keeffe for the New Yorker in March 1974.

The artist herself "did not offer huge amounts of cooperation," however. Today O'Keeffe lives alone in New Mexico, "a matriarch of the world of modern art," Dr. Hoffman writes in her preface, and at 96 something of "an enigma ... enshrouded in the mysteries and rhythms of the desert." Recently ill and almost blind, she still continues to paint, the author says, but her communication with critics and journalists has been quite limited.

The author's prologue begins with O'Keeffe's birth on Nov. 15, 1887, in Sun Prairie, Wisconsin, farmland that "belonged to the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries." Her family later took her to Virginia, and from there the young art student found her way to New York in 1907.

It was while teaching in South Carolina several years later that O'Keeffe made the crucial decision to break from the formal traditions of painting, the world of still lifes and portraits, and "just do what she felt she should do as an artist, to paint how she felt," Dr. Hoffman says. "She began doing watercolors and charcoal drawings. It was a decision to follow her own star."

She went on to teach in Texas, where she painted "a large number of bold and daring watercolors," the author writes. And she began corresponding with Alfred Stieglitz, a New York photographer and gallery owner who had already exhibited some of her drawings (without her permission).

Stieglitz, 20 years her senior, would later become her husband. He and his 291 gallery on Fifth Avenue were at the center of a circle of avant-garde artists, writers, and critics, and in addition to his role in showcasing modern art, Dr. Hoffman says, he championed photography as an art form.

O'Keeffe came to New York in the summer of 1917 to paint under Stieglitz's guidance. It was another important decision, the author writes: "She arrived in a city ripe with ideas and change and absorbed much of that energy, influenced consciously and unconsciously by the temper of those times." It was "a period of unrest and change, but optimistically rebellious ..."

When Stieglitz first saw some of the artist's drawings in 1916, the same drawings he later exhibited, he exclaimed, "Finally a woman on paper!" His influence on O'Keeffe was important, Katherine says, because he supported her ideas and her work — "he really helped her continue" with her decision to paint what she felt.

The next great milestone in the artist's life, Dr. Hoffman believes, was her first trip to New Mexico during the late twenties. She would return to the land that became such a vital part of her work every summer for the next 20 years, and after Stieglitz died in 1946, she moved from New York to live full-time in this "much narrower and quieter" world.

In the years since, the artist has travelled extensively, produced some large pieces of cast aluminum sculpture — and has continued to paint.

Although her subjects have changed over the years, O'Keeffe's work has its own "certain kind of consistency," Katherine notes. She has moved from abstract, "free-flowing" works in muted pastels to "very geometric, very minimal, hard-edged" works in bright colors — and back again. "She goes back and forth from realistic to abstract in the same year."

In her book, Dr. Hoffman offers detailed critical analysis of the artist's work, from abstract oils and watercolors inspired by the Texas plains, to a series of stunning

Recycling Center Used Seven Days A Week

Quantities of recyclables arrive at Andover Recycling's downtown drop-off center as relentlessly as the tide, all hours, every day of the week. The center is located in the inner corner of the parking lot at Park and Bartlet where Purity Supreme-Heartland once stood. It has operated since May 11 and will continue as long as Andover's curbside pickup of paper and glass is suspended for lack of a contractor.

Because the center is open all day every day, many loads are being left when workers are not present to reject non-recyclable items and to help keep the paper bin tightly stacked from floor to ceiling. If workers are not there and the paper container is full, townspeople should stack bundles of paper as neatly as possible far enough away from the opening to permit the large metal door to be closed. Helpers are stationed at the center weekdays and Saturdays from 9 a.m. until at least 5 p.m. and often until 7 p.m.

Some people who recycle are still unaware that brown glass has not been recycled in Andover for the past three years and should not be put into the clear or green glass bins at the recycling center. Non-recyclable materials such as detergent boxes, plastics, wallcovering sample books, and other items are still being left, but most patrons are preparing their paper by tying with string or bundling in paper grocery bags as they should. The response to the recycling center has been steady and in most cases, very enthusiastic.

College Study Is Offered

For the sixth year, the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. will offer "How to Study in College" to local high school graduates from July 23-26 at Merrimack College Library Auditorium from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The course was developed by Dean R.F. Schwarz and Professor H.D. Murdock of Purdue University.

"The prime objective of the course is to make the transition from high school to college a positive experience for the students," said Cathy Dawson, program director at the Y.M.C.A.

Topics in the four session course include: How People Learn, Why We Forget the Art of Listening, Taking Lecture Notes, Planning Your Time, Basic Study Formulas, Techniques of Review, What You Need to Know About Each Professor, Management of Time and two simple study techniques that will almost guarantee one letter grade higher in every course.

The instructors will discuss the problems of adjustment for students who will be living at home and attending local colleges as well as those who will be going away to school.

"Our response from past years has been very positive," said Dawson. "Students tell us that they feel more confident about being able to adjust to being away from home, budgeting time and to college in general."

Each session is conducted like a regular college class. The instructor has experience in both academic and personal adjustment counseling of new college students. He understands the problems that students may not even know they have.

High school graduates about to enter college may reserve a place in the course and obtain additional information by contacting Cathy Dawson at the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

Lecture

Author James Brough of Chelmsford will present a talk, "My Friends, the Dionnes," on Sunday, July 15, at 3 p.m. at the Museum of Our National Heritage, Lexington, in conjunction with the museum's current exhibit, "The Dionne Quintuplet Craze: A 1930's Phenomenon." Brough wrote the book "We Were Five" in 1965, the authorized biography of the Dionne Quintuplets.

Brough will touch on the growing up years of the quintuplets and will tell how the remaining quints, Cecile, Yvonne and Annette, have resolved the problems produced by their uniqueness and how they have finally attained what they had searched for.

Goodwill Relocates In Lawrence

Lawrence's Goodwill Store will relocate to 372 Essex St., the former location of McQuade's Department Store, Sales Director Anne Moore announced.

The new Goodwill store will have a more modern interior with a bargain basement as an added bonus. The Grand Opening will be Monday, July 16, at 10 a.m. Robert Vinson, Merrimack Valley Goodwill Industries' new executive director will officiate at this event. Regular store hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

"This move will enable us to accommodate the community's retailing needs with better than ever low prices in our basement store," said Moore, speaking for the Merrimack Valley Goodwill Industries, Inc. of Lowell.

The store was housed for five years at 195 Essex St., on the fringe of the shopping district. The new location is in the heart of the Lawrence retailing section which will allow more shoppers to seek out sensational buys on their lunch hour.

Goodwill Industries, organized in 1921, is a Lowell-based, not-for-profit rehabilitation center that obtains contracts from industry for assembly work, packaging and heat-sealing operations. The contracts provide work for some 200 handicapped persons from throughout the Merrimack Valley, including Nashua, N.H. Clients, once trained, are placed in jobs outside the agency whenever possible.

About half of the funding for rehabilitation training comes from the six retail stores operated by the agency. The other five stores are situated in Fitchburg, Haverhill, Lowell, Wilmington and Nashua. Goodwill officials say the Lawrence store has always ranked high in sales.

Wolfendon Painting On Exhibit

Andover Artist Has Exhibit

Andover artist Karen Wolfendon is exhibiting her colorful paintings in the McQuade Library Art Gallery at Merrimack College in North Andover.

The exhibit, "Lawrence Paintings, 1980-1984," will be on display through August 30. Summer gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

A former Merrimack College student, Wolfendon also studied at the California College of Arts and Crafts. She studied ceramics at the Delhi Blue School of Pottery in New Delhi, India.

Her painterly, yet realistic paintings depict a variety of scenes from neighboring Lawrence, which Wolfendon describes as "a city full of color and contrast."

"What is beautiful or ugly is the quality of our looking," she adds. "These paintings of Lawrence are an attempt to offer the possibility of looking, to expand our vision is to expand our presence."

A reception for the artist will be held in the McQuade Library Art Gallery on Sunday, July 8, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The exhibit and reception are free and open to the public.

Conversion

New England Electric completed permanent conversion of the first of three generating units at its Salem Harbor Station to coal burning. The company has scheduled conversion of the second and third units for September and December.

"The conversion of this first unit, which involved switching to new environmental protection equipment and a new chimney, is a major step toward keeping customer costs down and reducing our dependence on foreign oil," said New England Electric's new chief operating officer, John F. Kaslow.

The company began burning coal on a temporary basis in March 1982 under the terms of a waiver from the federal government.

New England Electric is a public utility holding company headquartered in Westborough. System subsidiaries include Massachusetts Electric Company, The Narragansett Electric Company in Rhode Island and Granite State Electric Company in New Hampshire.

The Arena Theater, Tufts University, announces the Boston premiere of 'The Woolgatherer' by William Mastrosimone, July 5-7 and 10-14 at 8 p.m.

This comic drama involves Rose, an innocent recluse whose whole life centers around reveries and daydreams. Into her life enters Cliff, a rough, hard-working truck driver who is just as starved for love as she is. The secrets they uncover about each other disclose a very surprising, yet "human" drama.

Cataracts

Although three out of four elderly Americans have cataracts, it is usually curable. Cataracts can be removed by safe and simple surgery. The cataract-clouded lens can now be replaced by permanent lens implants within the eye or extended-wear contact lenses which can be worn continuously around the clock for weeks or months at a time.

Anniversary

Twenty-five years ago, on July 6, 1959, at 6 p.m., Channel 11 went on the air for the first time. With a staff of four and powered by a feeble 51-kilowatt transmitter Channel 11 broadcast four hours of programming each night, including such visual treats as "Louis Lyons and the News," "The Friendly Giant," "Highway Holiday," "Sew Easy," "Japanese Brush Painting" and "The Boston Symphony."

Today, New Hampshire Public Television/Channel 11 is beamed from a 316 kilowatt transmitter atop Saddleback Mountain in Deerfield to the Granite State and wide areas of Massachusetts, southern Maine and eastern Vermont. Two additional transmitters in Keene and Littleton have made it possible for Channel 11's signal to reach 98 percent of the state's population.

Today, General Manager Arthur J. Singer manages a staff of more than 70 technicians, videographers, producers, and other fundraising events.

To obtain a 25th anniversary issue of the Channel 11 program guide, write to Anniversary Issue, Channel 11, Box 1100, Durham, N.H. 03824.

WOMEN, CHILD SUPPORT & DIVORCE

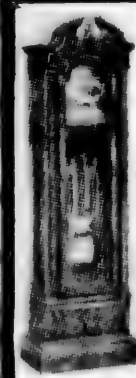

If you are separated from your husband you may feel bound to accept your husband's determination of what is a reasonable figure for weekly child support payments, either because you are afraid he may fight you for custody if you do not accept, or because you feel a Court will not award you any more than he is offering anyway. Andover Church Will Assist In Rehabilitating Lawrence House

A unique ground-breaking was held in Lawrence last Friday, representing a major step in the efforts of two local churches, a state agency, private investors and a national business group to reclaim a "derelict" building for family housing.

The burned out and vandalized building at 24-26 Summer St. will be reconverted into six apartments that residents can partly "own" themselves.

State Sen. Patricia McGovern, State Rep. Susan Tucker and Lawrence Mayor John J. Buckley attended the 10:30 a.m. ceremony along with other state and local officials. The project has attracted wide attention because of its ground roots nature and the creative financing obtained. It could become a prototype for other "rehab" here and elsewhere.

"Covenant Housing," as it is called, grew out of the concern of the Rev. Westy Egmont of South Church, Andover, and the Rev. William Garcia, pastor of the Spanish Evangelical Church in Lawrence, over the lack of affordable housing in Lawrence, particularly in the Spanish-speaking community.

Members of both churches joined in the campaign to provide the kind of rehabilitated housing that used to be funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development until, Mr. Egmont says, "those funds came to a roaring halt."

Covenant Housing's efforts, Mr. Egmont adds, put the group "on the creative edge of Christian witness."

"There are a lot of derelict buildings in Lawrence that would not be economically feasible to rehabilitate for profit," he goes on. "However, by finding low rate loans and a limited partnership investment plan, Covenant Housing found it is possible for buildings to be rehabilitated on a non-profit basis."

Covenant Housing took possession of the six-unit "devastated" building at 24-26 Summer St., from the City of Lawrence. The adjoining six-apartment building at 28-30 Summer St. will be purchased from a private owner.

Shovels at the "groundbreaking" weren't wielded in the traditional sense, but were used to toss out a symbolic shovelful of trash. Mr. Egmont estimates that 20 dumpsters will be needed to collect the trash. The clean-out will be done over the next two weeks by teams of volunteers from South Church and the Spanish Evangelical Church, saving an estimated $7500.

Paid contractors will move in for the actual reconstruction work, funded by a construction loan. Then a second wave of volunteers will arrive to paint.

Members of the New England Coatings Association will donate the paint as part of the National Coatings Association's "Picture it Painted" campaign which takes on projects "for the public good."

When the buildings are finished, the Massachusetts Land Bank, which funds rehabilitation of run-down buildings, will grant Covenant Housing a 20-year mortgage at 8 percent interest. Additional financing has come through private donations and through limited partnership investments by private citizens.

The two buildings will become the Summer Street Cooperative and the new residents will be given responsibility for the maintenance and management of the buildings, in return for some ownership.

Covenant Housing is a non-profit corporation with Donald Aikman of Andover as president; the Rev. Westy Egmont, treasurer; and Diane MacDougall of Andover, clerk. Directors include the Rev. William Garcia, Frank Piekarski of Andover and Jose Adames, Juan Aveiro and Manuel Guerrero, all of Lawrence. Others who have been on the planning include Debbie Aikman, Kathy Egmont, Paula Hagen, Karen Parker and Dave and Lynn Welbourn, all of South Church.

Jim Stockard, housing consultant with Stockard & Engler of Cambridge, and Nick Elton, architect with Conover & Elton in Cambridge, have been paid consultants on the job.

Wendell Mattheson

Accountant Retires

By Susan Rand

After balancing the town's books for 22 years Wendell A. Mattheson has retired as Andover's accountant.

The Clark Road resident, who started as town accountant in November of 1962, was the guest of honor at a retirement party last Thursday evening at the Lanam Club. Although he knew about the celebration, Ruth Mattheson, Wendell's wife, said he didn't know he would be seeing family and friends from afar among the 90 people present to wish Mattheson well.

Taking over at Town Hall will be assistant Rodney Smith, who had been the assistant accountant for four years, said Mattheson.

Mattheson told THE TOWNSMAN that he will miss all the hustle and bustle of business at Town Hall. After over two decades of working, sometimes seven days a week, life will be a bit different for Mattheson.

"The job was almost like a second home for me," he said. "It's been a big part of my life."

As the town's accountant, Mattheson, who worked for the old Lawrence Cooperative Bank before starting work for the town, served as an auditor for the town. He explained that besides "keeping the books," he had to approve all expenditures, making sure they were reasonable and proper, and see that town departments didn't overspend their budgets. He also oversaw the town's retirement system.

When he started working for the town there were two women working in the office with him, said Mattheson. The staff grew to six with Mattheson overseeing four clerks and an assistant when he left.

In addition to staffing changes over the years the introduction of computers to the office changed the way things worked.

"I only had bookkeeping machines when I started here," Mattheson said.

The newly retired accountant said he has no plans for his time yet, adding that he is looking forward to each day and will just "play it by ear."

Surprise Grant Will Fund Computers

An award of state education funds that will provide additional money for the computer education program at Andover High School next year took town school administrators by surprise this week.

Andover is expected to receive a total of $16,555 for two projects from almost $5 million in federal vocational funds. The appropriations, to 74 public schools in the state, still need final approval from the Massachusetts Department of Education, according to officials at the Education Department.

The financial award came to Andover thanks to Norman Immerman, who was the program advisor of industrial education in the public schools until his post was eliminated this spring. Immerman, who lives in Andover, wrote the grant proposal for the funds. He didn't know, until THE TOWNSMAN contacted him, that Andover had been among the towns chosen for the funds. Since his job was phased out by the School Committee, Immerman will be back teaching in the classroom next fall.

Part of the grant money, some $13,- 230, will pay for the purchase of two or three word processing machines for use by the business department at the high school. Another $3,325 will fund a teaching aide in the business department who will work with special needs students taking classes there. Immerman said the grant will pay for 10 to 15 hours of extra work a week from the aide, a position that will be new next year.

At present there are three word processing units at the high school. Immerman said in the business department, the high school is somewhat behind the times but added that the additional equipment the grant will buy will help.

The word processors, he said, are more than just "glorified typewriters," they may be programmed to generate mailing lists or perform accounting tasks, said Immerman, who has been in the Andover school system for three years.

"The word processors are great for big business," he said. "They are the first real opportunity to increase productivity of the office worker since the electric typewriter."

Named To Executive Positions

The appointment of Harry Ruda as Vice President, Sales and Deane C. Osborne as Director of Engineering has been announced by President Alan P. Zucchini of Network Switching Systems, Inc.

Ruda joins the Andover, manufacturer of wide area network switching and control systems from Tymnet, Inc., where he was Eastern Region Manager. He was responsible for sales and support of public and network systems services. His previous experience includes sales management positions with Tymshare and Leasco Response, Inc. and extensive work in major systems design.

Osborne, who was Section Manager for digital PBX interface units at Wang Laboratories, directs the development of the new company's high capacity digital circuit/packet switch and network control software. He was also Manager of Digital Voice Engineering at Wang and, earlier, an engineering development manager at Northern Telecom and a chip design team member at IBM.

The NSS systems enable common and specialized carriers and large end users of telecommunication services to establish wide area networks with significant price-performance advantages over existing technologies, according to Zucchini.

Voice, data, image, and motion video traffic can be transmitted on a single circuit under computer control at speeds as high as 1.544 megabits/second (T-1). Zucchini reports. Modular design will accommodate expansion of system aggregate throughput from 16 up to 64 megabits/second, full duplex.

Zucchini also states that the NSS product line can be used with all wide area network transmission media, including terrestrial, satellite, radio, microwave, and fiber optic. Computer-based control stations permit optimum use of circuits and rapid reconfiguring in response to changing conditions.

DIET CENTER'S TIPS FOR TRAVELING

Travel, especially vacationing, like so many other forms of relaxation and pleasure, is often associated with food. We often find that traveling and eating go hand in hand. You can, however, choose nutritious foods and plan in advance. By taking along fresh fruits and vegetables, boiled eggs, and other healthful foods, you can maintain a stable blood sugar level and control your cravings. You can feel satisfied without eating rich and fattening snack foods. By planning ahead, you can also supply your body with vitamins and minerals, as well as fiber and bulk (so often needed when traveling, to prevent constipation).

It is also the utmost importance that you drink eight 8-oz. glasses of water each day. Water is a cleanser and aids in other bodily processes.

Your Diet Center Counselor will be happy to help you plan a suitable travel menu.

Hoffman

flower paintings, New York cityscapes and New Mexico desert images.

In New Mexico, for example, she began painting a well-known series of "bone paintings" in 1943. These paintings all feature pelvis bones ("frequently to be found near her house"); some are abstract, others realistic, some stark, others "dreamlike", some in grays and blues, others in reds and yellows.

"O'Keeffe has created her own individual aesthetic and remarkable sense of space which often throughout her career appears to be infinite in her paintings," Dr. Hoffman writes in the epilogue to her book. "She has also created a new world of nature's forms through her powerful personal expression. Almost always one senses that inner vitality that is important for survival in our present age."

During the twenties and thirties, the critical response to her work was "extreme," Katherine says. O'Keeffe had been "born into a world where women artists received little or no recognition" — and when the critics took notice of her work, most insisted on viewing it as "feminine imagery," the author writes. The flower paintings, for instance, were considered by some to be "blatant sexual images," she says, and not art at all.

O'Keeffe was not happy to be identified as a women artist: "She's always preferred to see herself as an artist, not a women artist. She doesn't like to think it matters," Dr. Hoffman believes it does matter, at least to some extent; if O'Keeffe had been a man, she says, the critics would not have reacted as they did to her flower paintings.

Today, "a lot of women artists look up to her as a grand dame figure, someone who's made it," she adds. As for the critics, "people are really accepting of her work today. It looks very sort of meek and mild-mannered," she says, compared to much of what has been done more recently in American art.

It is the artist's "courage to follow her own thinking, the courage and spirit to keep on doing her own work for 70 years" that Katherine most admires. She quotes Stieglitz, who near the end of his life told an interviewer that O'Keeffe was "absolute, clean cut like a crystal ... I don't believe she ever did anything which is contrary to her own inner feelings."

As her research progressed, Dr. Hoffman was impressed by the character that began to emerge from behind the artist's "lovely pastel images. The more I read, the more I realized that in many ways she is very tough. I came to see her personality a little bit differently — she has a certain kind of discipline and drive, even more than I had imagined."

She was also rather surprised, and "very impressed," by what she found in O'Keeffe's writings (letters and a 1976 book, Georgia O'Keeffe). The artist's words are in many ways "like her artwork — straightforward, honest, succinct." (It is not at all common to find an artist's words that truly complement the artist's work, she believes.)

Dr. Hoffman is convinced that O'Keeffe is an important artist, "particularly in American art — she is not classified in the Picasso category, but she's definitely an important American artist. She painted things that are part of the American culture." The shapes, forms and colors O'Keeffe uses have also had an influence on modern American art, she adds.

Certain of the artist's works will indeed endure, Dr. Hoffman says: some of the flower paintings (one of the best, in her opinion, is "White Rose with Larkspur, No. 2", which hangs in Boston's Museum of Fine Arts), the New Mexico bone images and pelvis images, a series of four large paintings entitled "Sky Above Clouds."

Among the author's favorite O'Keeffe works is a 1930 series of six paintings called "Jack-in-the-Pulpit", in which the artist starts with a "fairly realistic" representation of the flower and then transforms it, in the next five paintings, into "abstract or semiabstract" versions — all done in "powerful purples and greens, and ... strong curving forms."

Her immersion in Georgia O'Keeffe is now finished. She spent the 1982-83 academic year writing, and most of the past year rewriting, indexing, and proofreading: "It's still sort of unbelievable that I actually wrote this thing," she says, looking down at her book. "For a while it seemed like a never-ending process."

Katherine looks forward to spending more time on her own painting and photography, with hopes of showing her work in this area. She plans, also, to continue "exploring" the period of early American modern art. "I like the combination of visual work and writing," she says. "It's a matter of finding the time — I need at least 20 more hours in a day."

But she is not likely to truly leave Georgia O'Keeffe behind. The final words of her epilogue hint that the artist will stay with her somehow: "To enter the world of O'Keeffe's paintings and sculpture is to enter a world of everlasting spirit."

Beginning next Tuesday evening the local stores will be closed every evening except Saturday.

It isn't good to think what may become of the Frye Village Mill in the light of all the stories that are current regarding the recent sale of it. No soap works, no rendering plant, no offense of any kind whatsoever should be allowed in any section of residential Andover.

William Hogg, machinist, left the employ of the Smith and Dove Company last Saturday. He leaves Andover tomorrow for Salt Lake City, Utah, where he is to be assigned to duty for a large gold mining company in Nevada.

The Punchard anniversary has been an interesting, and we trust a useful occasion. It has brought together several representative gatherings of alumni covering the last 50 years. These men and women of all ages have drunken anew of the educational life of Andover.

The Cross Coal Co. will operate trucks to and from Pomp's pond for the benefit of the children who come from the center of town, as it has been done in the past, starting Saturday, July 1, at one o'clock and every day thereafter, weather permitting until the season closes in September. Those who ride are asked to conduct themselves in a proper manner, with no pushing or crowding, so that accidents will not occur.

The six-mile road race to be held in conjunction with the Fourth of July celebration in Andover has been sanctioned by the N.E.A.A.U. Many entries have already been received, and the commander of the Andover post, 2128, V.F.W., which is sponsoring for the second year Andover's Independence Day celebration, expects that some of the foremost runners in this section will compete for the beautiful Silver cups to be given to the winners.

Artists in this vicinity are invited by the Merrimack Valley Art association, a group recently organized to encourage creative art in the Merrimack Valley, to submit work for an exhibition by Merrimack Valley artists. The exhibit will be held at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, from July 21 to Sept. 10.

Richard J. Collins, for the past four years a teacher-coach at East Providence High School, has been appointed head football and track coach here. He will also teach in the high school. Collins was one of three applicants for the football coaching berth vacated by Robert McIntyre, whose resignation was accepted by the School Committee Monday night.

The Board of Appeals has turned down a request from C. Lincoln Giles for permission to create six apartments in a duplex house at 54-56 Whittier st. In turning down the request, the Board ruled that any such action would be "detrimental" to the neighborhood. Giles proposed to make four two-story apartments in the home, plus two three-room apartments on the third floor.

Twenty-six teachers in the school system have been placed on merit, and will receive an increase in salary based on a $500 yearly increment. The evaluation committee submitted its recommendation to Superintendent Edward I. Erikson, who in turn recommended the 26 to the full School Committee. The unanimous vote of that body confirmed the recommendation. There was no particular discussion of the merit plan at the time of approval.

ties, McQuade said.)

Whenever the meters are installed, the new parking limits will be enforced by a new traffic supervisor.

Annual town meeting approved that Police Department position (which will not necessarily be filled by a woman, necessitating a title other than "meter maid") at a salary of $12,100.

The traffic supervisor will work full-time reading meters on the day shift, freeing the police officer who now handles parking enforcement for other duties. (Although the meter reader will be chiefly responsible for enforcement, other police officers will remain alert to flagrant violations, Mahony noted.)

The Police Department has yet to fill the position. Police Chief James Johnson said Tuesday that he expects to begin advertising for applicants this month. Funding became available July 1 with the start of the new fiscal year, and the manager said he would like to hire the traffic supervisor as soon as possible.

When town lots have been fully metered and all-day parking has been eliminated in downtown Andover, those parkers most likely to feel the pain are commuters — and Andover has no clear solution to offer them.

"Commuters have a very distinct problem," the manager said, particularly because most commuting parkers like to leave their cars at the end of the bus line, which is for many the town lot on Main Street.

A variety of future alternatives are possible, he said: for instance, a town shuttle bus to bring commuters to a central bus stop. That, however, remains no more than an idea at this point.

In the meantime, there is "plenty of parking" at the train station off Essex Street, Mahony noted.

This is Birthday Party Day at the senior center. Everyone is welcome to come help the July people celebrate their birthdays at 2 p.m. today.

Last all for the Danversport Yacht Club trip July 12. There are still a few seats left for this delightful trip. Delicious dinner, great entertainment and all in a beautiful place for $20. You'll love it!

There will be a trip to Gloucester on July 31, leaving Andover about 8:30 a.m., visiting the Hammond Castle Museum, lunch at the Blackburn Tavern (chicken or schrod) and a tour of the Beauport Mansion. What a lovely day and it costs only $16. But you need to sign up now.

Have you bought your tickets for the Western Hoe-down at the senior center on Saturday, July 28? The fun begins at 5:30 p.m. and continues until 10 p.m. with chuck wagon vittles that includes barbequed chicken, ranch-style beans, cole slaw, corn bread and dessert. There will be western music and a square dance demonstration featuring Dick Delery. And all for only $6?

There is still time to register for the classes to be held at the senior center through the summer. It will be fun to have something interesting to do and in air-conditioned comfort. Ask about what classes are till open. Don't assume what you want is closed, ask.

Next Monday's movie will be "Peter Pan." You are invited to bring well-behaved grandchildren to see this classic with you. Of course, it's free! The movie begins at 1 p.m.

The Historical Society will present the next in its series Andover's Bicentennial Parade on July 11. The program starts at 1 p.m.

You are reminded that the hot lunch program resumes the ninth at 11:45 a.m. You may call today, Thursday, or tomorrow to make your reservation.

On August 16, for $3, you can travel to Salisbury Beach to celebrate their Senior Citizens Day. Whatever else you spend is up to you. You'll be free to wander about as you choose and eat whatever and wherever you will, but as always, you have to sign up at the center to let them know you want to be included.

The next mini-clinic will be held at Stowe Court on July 10 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. The service is free and people are seen by appointment only.

There are still some seats left for the Lawrence Welk Show in September.

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Space-age tech keeps Declaration a living documentBy Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — We have good news this Independence week. The document that started it all — the Declaration of Independence — is in good hands at the National Archives.

As might be expected, it has faded, and many of the signatures are illegible. Only John Hancock's bold flourish remains clear and unmistakable, two centuries after he wrote it so that King George III could read it without his spectacles.

Since 1952, the declaration has been sealed in a helium-filled glass case that was designed to prevent further deterioration. As long as the case doesn't leak, temperature and humidity changes will have no effect on this priceless piece of America's heritage. And experts check the case each day for any sign of a leak. There have been none so far.

Two years ago, Congress got worried again about the declaration, so the Archives staff organized a group of document experts to make the daily inspections.

The experts are satisfied that the precious document is not deteriorating, but just to be on the safe side, they recommended that the Archives develop a state-of-the-art method of inspecting the declaration inside its glass case. They turned to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for help.

The space scientists came through handsomely. Last March, NASA's Jet Propulsion Lab reported that it had developed a space-age system, based on electronic image enhancement, for inspecting the declaration.

The experts assured our associate Tony Capaccio that the device will give early warning of any deterioration in the document. Archives officials expect the new system to be in place by 1987 — which happens to be the 200th anniversary of another historic document: the Constitution of the United States. The new system will also be used to keep track of the state of the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and other documents entrusted to the Archives.

Hundreds of Americans and foreign visitors stand in line each day to file past the Declaration of Independence. It is a useful reminder that there is more to the Fourth of July than picnics, hot dogs and fireworks.

We are pleased to report that the declaration will be around for at least another couple of hundred years, thanks to the tender loving care it is now getting.

NO MERCY: Most Americans who collect supplemental income payments from the Social Security Administration are impoverished women over 75. You would think the government would temper its strict enforcement of regulations governing such payments with a touch of mercy for these elderly women.

But the sad fact is that Uncle Sam is going after these senior citizens with a vengeance. Federal bureaucrats are paid well to make sure the women don't get a nickel more than they are entitled to, and often the enforcement proceedings cost more than the piddling amount of overpayments.

What's worse, Social Security employees get merit-pay raises for ruthlessness. The government offers incentives to the bureaucrats to seize the widows' mites. The more money they take away from the destitute women, the more money goes into their own pay envelopes.

Fair is fair, the bureaucrats say, and the rules must be obeyed. But consider these facts: There are now 4 million people drawing supplemental benefits, and roughly 3 million are women over 75. Many are physically or mentally disabled. Most never graduated from high school. Many have only a fourth-grade reading ability.

Yet the government sends these people forms to fill out that would give pause to a Philadelphia lawyer. It is no wonder that some of these women make mistakes that result in overpayments. When it happens, the government treats innocent mistakes as if they were underhanded attempts to defraud the Treasury.

Legislation has been introduced in Congress that would eliminate what its sponsors call the "meanness factor" in Social Security enforcement. But don't get the idea this would enable welfare recipients to ride around in limousines.

Nursing home residents, for example, now receive a monthly allowance of $25 for such sundry items as toiletries, haircuts and writing paper. The new legislation would raise this to the princely sum of $35.

DIPLOMATIC WARNING: Is there male chauvinism in the State Department? During the 1970s, the department increased its work force by 800 women, but virtually all of them were hired for low-level jobs. The higher you look in the State Department, the less likely you are to find a woman. Recently, Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., introduced legislation to end the discrimination. If such practices continue, she says, she will try to cut the department's budget.

MENGELE OR ELSE: The most notorious Nazi butcher still at large is Dr. Josef Mengele, the terrible "Angel of Death" at Auschwitz. He was last reported living in comfortable exile in Paraguay under the protection of dictator Gen. Alfredo Stroessner. Congressional sources have told us they will seek to cut off aid to Paraguay unless Mengele is deported to face long-delayed justice.

Organ Duo
In Concert

Marilyn and James Biery will present an organ duo on Wednesday, July 18, at 8:30 p.m. at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall.

James and Marilyn Biery hold Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees from Northwestern University, where they studied with Richard Enright, Grigg Fountain and Wolfgang Rubsam. Both were finalists in the National Open Competition in organ playing sponsored by the American Guild of Organists, Marilyn in 1982 and James in 1980. James is music director at Holy Trinity Church in Wallingford, CT. Marilyn has a private studio and teaches a class for the American Guild of Organists.

Their program: Duet for Organ by Samuel Wesley; L'Ascension by Olivier Messiaen; The Moldau by Bedrich Smetana; Concerto in b minor by Johann Gottfried Walther; Cortege et Litanie by Marcel Dupre and Polovetsian Dances from "Prince Igor" by Alexander Borodin.

The organ, completed in 1862, was installed in the Boston Music Hall (later known as the Orpheum Theatre on Washington Street in the shopping district of Boston), where for 20 years it was Boston's greatest musical attraction until the Boston Symphony Orchestra was founded in 1881. It was installed in the Methuen Memorial Music Hall at the turn of the century, after being in storage for many years.

Leo Abbott, organist, will perform Wednesday, July 25, at 8:30 p.m.

Strengthens Grip On First

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Gold Babe Ruth baseball team, seeking its fourth Greater Lawrence League championship in the last six years, strengthened its hold on first place and stretched its winning streak through five straight games by sweeping to three victories last week.

Rick Lafond almost singlehandedly kept the string alive in a dramatic 5-4 triumph over North Andover, hurling 3 and 1/3 innings of strong shutout relief and capping an impressive comeback from a 4-0 deficit by belting a two-out, two-run double in the bottom of the seventh.

The two prior victories were much easier, thanks once again to the sharp pitching of 15-year-old righthanders Larry Aiello and Chris Colsia.

Aiello, now 3-0, fired a masterful one-hit shutout as Gold coasted to an 8-0 triumph over an uncharacteristically sloppy South Lawrence West crew at Phillips Academy.

Colsia, in hiking his record to 3-1 overall, authored a three-hit masterpiece in a 7-1 decision over South Lawrence East at Mark Devlin Field.

Entering this week's action Gold had permitted just five runs and seven hits in its last four games.

The league leaders were 8-2 overall heading into last Monday night's contest with intra-town rival Andover while South Lawrence West stood at 8-4, North Andover 6-5 and Blue 5-5.

Last weekend a combined team of Andover Gold and Blue 14 and 15-year-old players stepped out of league play and drilled the Methuen Babe Ruth League 15-year-old All Stars 11-4 at the Pelham Street field in Methuen.

Other tentatively-scheduled non-league contests include Chelmsford, Billerica, Acton, Lowell and Yarmouth, and the two Andover squads will join forces to play in several tournaments next month.

Andover Gold, 5-4

Rick Lafond's clutch two-run double to left-centerfield in the bottom of the seventh enabled Gold to remain firmly entrenched atop the standings and avenged a tough 6-5 loss to the same NA team earlier this season.

North Andover had battled back from a late 5-1 deficit in that first contest, chalking up five unearned runs to pull it out.

Fourteen-year-old lefthander Mike Lane, the hard-luck losing pitcher against NA in that first game, appeared headed for a similar fate when four unearned runs gave the visitors their 4-0 advantage in the top of the fourth.

Lane worked the first 3 and 2/3 innings in this one, retiring the first six batters easily and escaping a huge jam in the third when NA had runners at second and third with no one out (two walks and a wild pitch).

He extricated himself with a ground ball out to drawn-in shortstop Chris Colsia, a foul pop to first baseman Larry Aiello and a superb diving catch by leftfielder Chris Nelson to rob Sam Conte of a two-run double.

In the fourth, however, North Andover did all its damage and produced the first of its two singles.

Mark Rozzi opened the inning by reaching first base on a dropped third strike and with one out Jim Hermann slapped a weak hit-and-run single through the vacated second-base hole.

Lane retired the next batter for the second out, which should have ended the inning, but then three walks, a wild pitch and a dropped flyball opened the gates for four unearned runs.

Gold, meanwhile, had North Andover starter P.J. McCabe on the ropes several times but left six baserunners stranded in the first four stanzas.

Colsia reached on an error and Aiello walked in the first and in the third Chris Nelson walked, Colsia singled and Aiello walked again as Gold left the bases loaded following a pop-out.

Lafond came on to shut the door by getting the final out in the fourth and made his Babe Ruth pitching debut a memorable one by retiring 10 of the 11 batters he faced. Matt Strobel's infield single leading off the sixth was the one safety against Lafond.

The Gold comeback was launched with two runs in the bottom of the fifth. Lafond and Colsia were both safe on infield errors, Chris Concemi loaded the bases with a sharp two-strike single and Aiello came through with an opposite-field two-run single to right.

Once again AG left two runners stranded, however, as the next three batters were retired easily.

The winners chipped away for another run in the sixth when Nelson singled, Lafond walked and a throwing error on Scott Wallace's infield hit brought Nelson across.

Aiello then drew his third walk of the game to load the bases, but for the second time AG left the sacks full when the next hitter grounded out.

Earl Abdoo opened the pivotal seventh with a sharp single, but the next two batters were retired easily.

Chris Nelson kept things alive by lacing a crisp double down the leftfield line, setting the stage for Lafond who picked out a 2-1 pitch and hammered it to deep left-centerfield to rescue the tying and winning runs.

Nelson and Aiello were both on base four times, Nelson with a single, double and two walks and Aiello with a single and three walks.

Tom Murray also contributed a single and Mike Lane made a pair of fine catches in rightfield late in the contest.

Andover Gold, 8-0

All that separated Larry Aiello from a no-hitter was a misjudged flyball that dropped for a double to open the game.

After that leadoff two-bagger Aiello retired 21 of 23 batters, allowing only a second inning walk to Dan Bergeron and a seventh inning walk to Dan Cardillo.

Aiello struck out six, permitted just two balls to be hit out of the infield and the one-hit shutout was his second straight. He also fired a one-hit gem against South Lawrence East in his previous start, whiffing eight and walking two in that one.

Gold jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first when Chris Colsia singled, Mark Tucker singled, Mike Lane reached on an error, Aiello walked and Tom Murray laced a two-run single past the second baseman.

The winners added four more runs in the second on a series of errors, wild pitches, passed balls and singles by Colsia, Tucker and Lane.

The final Gold tally came in the seventh when Abdoo lined a one-out double, moved to third on a walk and scored on Aiello's looping single to centerfield.

Tucker, Colsia, Lane and Abdoo scored two runs apiece. Tucker and Colsia spanked two safeties each and Andy Shea delivered a pinch-hit single.

Gold played errorless ball with third baseman Murray, second baseman Scott Wallace, shortstop Colsia and pitcher Aiello all making strong defensive showings.

Andover Gold, 7-1

Chris Colsia fashioned a masterful three-hitter, striking out six and walking just one and contributed a pair of hits including a two-run single as Gold cruised past South Lawrence East at the Stadium.

The only run by SLE came in the bottom of the seventh and was unearned, losing pitcher Greg Rennie beating out an infield hit and eventually scoring on a pair of throwing errors.

Gold grabbed a 2-0 lead in the top of the first, Mike Lane lashing an RBI double to centerfield and Earl Abdoo plating Lane with a single.

It remained 2-0 until the fifth when AG batted around, scoring four runs with the key hits a two-run single by Colsia, an RBI single by Joe Lyons and another safety by Lane. Larry Aiello and Scott Wallace also helped the cause by working Rennie for walks.

The final Gold run was notched in the top of the seventh as Tom Murray reached on an error and came across on a wild pitch.

Gold, averaging just under 10 hits per game, laced nine in this contest with Colsia, Lane and Abdoo contributing two apiece. Mark Tucker also delivered a single.

Did You Know?

James Lind, a British Naval surgeon, in 1747 proved experimentally the value of a treatment for a disease that had incapacitated more seamen than all other diseases, wars, shipwrecks and accidents combined. The disease was scurvy, a severe vitamin deficiency resulting from sailors' unvaried diet of salt meat and sea biscuits.

Lind's recommendation was the addition of fresh limes, other citrus fruits and their juices, to diets of seamen. Though not adopted generally by the British Navy until after his death, this diet saved countless lives. British seamen, thereafter called "Limeys," were the first group to receive vitamin therapy.

Surette Pitches Andover Blue To Win Over North Andover

By Todd Crimmons

Fourth-week action in Greater Lawrence Babe Ruth League play saw Andover Blue open the week with a tough 7-6 loss to South Lawrence West and end with a well earned 3-2 win over North Andover at Phillips Academy.

In the SLW game at Mount Vernon Field in Lawrence, Blue came up with three runs in the top of the fourth to take a 3-1 lead. A Glenn Allard-single, Cam Deery-double and an error on a handhit ball by Jeff Smith brought home the first run. Bill O'Brien drilled a single to right to drive in Smith and the final tally scored on a SLW passed ball.

SLW tied the game with two runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Blue came back with three additional runs in the top of the fifth. Brian Gibson walked and Steve Surette singled him to third. A passed ball and an Allard-triple brought home two runs before Allard scored the Blue's final run of the game on fielder's choice.

SLW put the game away with two runs in the bottom of the sixth and two more in the bottom of the seventh. Losing pitcher Jeff Smith went the full seven innings, giving up five hits and striking out seven.

On Wednesday Andover Blue avenged an earlier defeat and a tie with North Andover by coming out on top 3-2.

Surette pitched Andover to victory in his best performance of the season. He went the distance, giving up six hits, striking out three batters and only walking three.

This game combined good defense and excellent pitching by both teams as North Andover's pitcher went the first six innings before giving way, allowing four hits and two runs.

Tied 2-2 going into the bottom of the seventh, Cam Deery and Jeff Smith opened the inning with walks and Peter Barry came up with his second hit of the game to move them into scoring position and loading the bases. Dave Curtis then put down a bunt scoring Deery from third giving Blue their 3-2 win.

After 11 games the Andover Blue record stands at 5-5-1. The next two weeks include five games and will be critical in determining post season playoff position.

Named To Bay State Team

Two local basketball stars have been named to the Bay State Games Girls' Scholastic Basketball Team for the northeast region.

Shawna McClosky, who just finished her sophomore year at Andover High School, and Kristine Uttley, who will be a senior at North Andover High next fall, will both start as forwards on the Northeast state team at the Massachusetts Amateur Sports Festival held at various locations in Boston on Thursday, July 12 through Sunday, July 15.

McClosky has been a member of the all-star team in the Merrimack Valley Conference League for the past two years. She was in the foul shooting finals for the Greater Lawrence League and was selected as an all-star at Boston University's basketball camp

Uttley, whose speed has helped her set a number of track and field records at North Andover High, is a two-year Cape Ann League all-star and was named the team's most valuable player for two years. She was also named to all-star teams designated by the Boston Herald and the Lawrence Eagle Tribune. Uttley has been consistently scoring 15 points per game and is 55% from the field goal line.

defensive play at second and third respectively. While Abdoo played an exceptional game at catcher

Gold-Blue, 11-4

Methuen was no match for the Gold-Blue combine, the winners rapping 11 hits and receiving a five-hot pitching effort from Chris Colsia (two innings), Steve Surette (two innings), Glenn Allard (two innings), Larry Aiello (two innings) and Jeff Smith (one inning).

Gold-Blue pitchers walked five and fanned four in the nine-inning contest. Rick Lafond sparked the offense with three hits, including a double and three runs scored.

Allard chipped in a single, two-run double and three RBIs while Earl Abdoo added a double, single and three RBIs as well.

Steve Surette and Jeff Smith aced run-scoring singles. Cam Deery had a basehit and defensive standouts included outfielders Lafond, Deery and Dave Curtis along with infielders Scott Wallace and Mark Tucker

Medicine

Studies show that half of all prescriptions filled are taken incorrectly. The results of taking medication incorrectly can be serious: at best, the patient will not get as much of a beneficial effect as he might have. At worst, serious side effects, often requiring hospitalization, can be expected.

Common errors in taking medication include:

Mixing drugs: Two drugs taken independently may both be beneficial to you, but mixed together in your body they may spell disaster. This problem is not restricted to prescription drugs: an over-the-counter drug that you have been taking for years without incident may have a very poor interaction with your new prescription.

Mixing food and drugs: Some foods and drinks simply do not mix with certain medications. We all know that drinking alcohol may be unsafe with certain drugs, but did you know that foods like milk, cheddar cheese or orange juice may diminish the effects of some prescription medications?

Not finishing medication: Patients often do not finish taking medication that must be taken in full to be effective.

Taking the wrong dosage.

The National Council on Patient Information and Education recommends asking the following five questions every time you are given a new medication:

1. What is the name of the drug and what is it supposed to do?

2. How and when do I take it and for how long?

3. What foods, drinks, other medicines or activities should I avoid while taking this drug?

4. Are there any side effects and what do I do if they occur?

5. Is there any written information available about the drug?

She also achieved the distinction of being selected to membership in both Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa. Her grandmother, Helen Logan Need '22, is also a Wellesley alumna.

President Nannerl O. Keohane presented the degree to 474 women at commencement ceremonies this June.

Author of "A Different Voice: Psychological Theory and Women's Development," commencement speaker Carol Gilligan asked the graduating seniors to guard the visions of female possibility, both individual and collective, they were taking into the world.

"I urge you to hold on to your sense of disbelief when you encounter, first of all, the equation of human with male and secondly, with the more problematic equations of caring with self-sacrifice. Both challenges will bring you into disagreement, but also into engagement with the major issues of our time, how to deal with conflicts without losing connection, how to recognize... that the world is, in fact, interdependent."

4000S TWO-DOOR SPORTS SEDAN

$12,640

4000S FOUR-DOOR SPORTS SEDAN

$13,240

4000S QUATTRO SPORTS SEDAN

$16,830

When you consider how well equipped each Audi 4000S is, it's quite an engineering feat that they are so affordable.

The two 4000S sports sedans, for example, are aerodynamically sleek, feature front-wheel drive, rack-and-pinion steering, advanced fuel injected 4-cylinder engines, air conditioning, cruise control and the sort of comforting ergonomic interiors you expect in German luxury sport sedans. The surprise is, the engineering and luxury is not optional.

But the biggest surprise is the 4000S Quattro. It's the car that history will record as pivotal in the evolution of the passenger car. The German engineers at Audi combined permanent all-wheel drive with independent four-wheel suspension and four-wheel disc brakes to bring the driver a keener sensation of handling, cornering and stopping performance. And the interior appointments make it possible for passengers to enjoy this new driving experience as much as the driver.

The Audi sports sedans are worth a closer look. And even better than a look, a test drive. After you've experienced Audi's amazing engineering feats for yourself, we think you'll agree, the prices are sheer genius. 24 Month Unlimited Mileage Warranty.

Lemon Law

"Report on the First Six Months of the Lemon Law" was issued by Secretary of Consumer Affairs and Business Regulation Paula W. Gold and Assistant Secretary Sarah E. Wald. The purpose of the report is to examine what has been accomplished in terms of Lemon Law implementation, to point out problem areas and to suggest possibilities for future action.

"The biggest problem with the law so far is the non-participation of auto manufacturers in arbitration prescribed by the law," said Gold. "This is particularly distressing because it was the manufacturers who wanted arbitration included in the law in the first place."

In simple terms, the Lemon Law provides that if a new vehicle has a substantial defect and the manufacturer cannot repair it after four times or 22 business days, then the vehicle is a "lemon" and must be replaced or money refunded.

Gas Prices

Gasoline prices dropped an average of three-tenths of one cent per gallon during five weeks between Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, according to the American Automobile Association's latest Fuel Gauge survey. Gasoline costs about two cents a gallon less than a year ago at this time. Prices are lower this holiday than they have been on any July 4

Be Ready for the summer. You never know from one day to the next what New England weather can bring. If the hot weather catches you with a broken down air conditioner or refrigerator, call TOPS Electronic Service at 84 Main Street, North Reading (next to Zayre's).

Count on TOPS for repairing many of your major appliances such as your washer, dryer and refrigerator all right in your home.

You'll receive prompt, efficient service on your VCRs, televisions, stereos and microwaves as well.

TOPS electrical technicians are factory trained in all phases of home entertainment and major appliance repairs and can repair almost any electrical problem your equipment might have.

Heading for the beach? Make sure your "boom box" is working up to par. If it's delivering less than perfect performance bring it to TOPS Electronics for fast, professional service and you'll be back on the beach in no time.

As the authorized service center for most major manufacturers, TOPS provides warranty service on every major manufacturer. And you'll get faster repair service from TOPS than most other service centers in the area meaning your air conditioner, stereo, boom box or VCR spends less time in the repair shop.

And you can depend on the professional service from TOPS. Your equipment will be competently repaired so it will spend the summer home with you and not in and out of the repair shop.

If you'd rather do the repairs yourself, TOPS offers a wide range of parts for those interested in do-it-yourself repairs.

Owner Tony Bonanno started TOPS in 1977 and the company has grown to include a staff of 30 who do repair work for such commercial customers as Lechmere's Dedham and Framingham stores and Ann & Hope in Danvers and Watertown.

The next time your air conditioner or refrigerator breaks down, don't sweat it out; call the experts at TOPS Electronic Service. Open Mon. thru Fri. 8 am - 5 pm (closed Sat. til Labor Day). Tel. 664-4435 and 944-4911.

on the financing of the construction of the trunk sewer line. The action followed word from Hewlett-Packard company, the park's prime tenant, and for whom the town approved the $2.5 million sewer line in March of 1973, that ground would not be broken in July of this year as promised.

Two department heads were given less than their recommended salary increases by the School Committee Tuesday night — and three received more — after Committeeman John Wragg insisted that college board scores should be one of the criteria on which a department head's salary is based. In still other action, a non-tenured math teacher at East Junior High was refused a maternity leave of absence, in an effort by Committeeman George Oleson to set a policy for the future.

The Andover School System Study Group voted Monday night to become just what its new name says — a study group — not a "lynch mob." Dr. Matthew Cushing, moderator, said the group intends to make a "ruthlessly impartial" study of the school situation and then release their findings to the community, letting "the facts speak for themselves."

Curtin's commitment to the achievement of America's youth in sports is felt by young amateur athletes nationwide from Andover to the Olympics. As part of the company's owner/operator community, he sponsors a number of national youth sports federations, including Age-Group Swimming, U.S. Diving, U.S. Synchronized Swimming and the U.S. Gymnastics Federation.

Business Building Is Sold

A mini-mall at the corner of Stevens and North Main Street changed hands last week when an Andover man sold the building for half a million dollars.

A. Leonard Seeche, of Andover, sold his three-year old building to Thomas Narekian, of Burlington. The $500,000 sale was final on Thursday, July 28, according to papers at the Registry of Deeds, in Lawrence.

The 5,500 square foot building, which is three stories high, houses seven retail shops. Tenants are The Kitchen Place, Print World, Designers Workshop, Hyatt Research Co., Video Revolution, Hair Designs and Purse-onally Yours.

Realtors handling the sale were Edward and Gary Simon, of ABCO Realty, 30 Park St.

WHO BEARS INSURANCE RISK?

The timing of insurance coverage can be critical when buying or selling property. There is the grim possibility that the home in question could burn down BETWEEN taking title and recording that title.

Final settlement on a property always takes place before formal papers can be filed with the local recording office. But what happens if settlement occurs on a Monday, the house burns down on a Tuesday, and the purchase was not actually recorded by public officials until Wednesday?

Should the loss be borne by the seller, the buyer or divided between the parties? When the issue of risk is not addressed in the contract, it is decided by state law.

If you are the buyer, the lender will require you to bring a paid fire, theft and liability policy to the settlement. If you are the seller, you have a clear interest in the property until a new title has been recorded, insurance should be maintained until recording and, preferably, until you have received the sales proceeds.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 5 PUNCHARD Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Interviews Scheduled For Assistant Superintendent

School Committee members will meet finalists for the assistant superintendent for elementary schools post next Tuesday afternoon when they interview the potential administrators for the newly created job.

And, the process to select an assistant superintendent for secondary schools will begin all over again for lack of finalists for the position.

Both assistant posts were approved as permanent jobs, with a salary range of $42,000 to $45,000, by the School Committee this spring.

Charles Mitsakos was the last person to hold the job in a permanent capacity. When he left Andover last December for another position he was replaced by Lois Haslam, who took over supervision of the four elementary schools as an acting assistant superintendent, and Richard McGrail, who was appointed acting assistant for the town's three secondary schools.

The jobs were advertised this spring and in early June, 39 persons had applied for the elementary position and 57 turned in applications for the secondary post. The fields were narrowed to finalists in each category.

Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools, told THE TOWNSMAN that whether the interviews set for next Tuesday, July 10, which are scheduled throughout the afternoon, are open to the public is up to School Committee Chairman Donald W. Robb. Robb couldn't be reached before THE TOWNSMAN's deadline.

Seifert said he could not release the names of the finalists for the jobs until he had their permission, which he expected sometime next week.

There was only one finalist for the assistant for secondary schools so that job will be re-posted for a second round of candidates, Seifert said.

The jobs were initially advertised in the Boston Globe, the Lowell Sun, the Lawrence Eagle Tribune and with a university placement service.

Fashions

"Fashions By The Sea," the annual fashion show sponsored by Exeter Hospital Associates, will be held August 9 at 2:30 p.m. at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fuller, Lea House, North Hampton, N.H.

Tickets will go on sale after July 4.

Yolanda of Waltham will produce the show which will feature well-known TV personalities, among them Liz Walker, anchorwoman at WBZ-Channel 4, Boston.
